5. Assisted Outpatient Treatment (AOT) - Hannah Smith	Hannah Smith, Pam Nay, and DA Montoya went to the AOT conference last week. Assisted Outpatient Treatment is a program that provides community-based treatment under civil court commitment to: 1) motivate an adult with mental illness to fully engage in their treatment plan and 2) focus the attention of treatment providers on the work to keep this person engaged in treatment. Minimum year long program. Eligible candidates: schizophrenia or bipolar diagnoses, repeated hospitalizations and/or incarceration, can be a deflection/diversion from prosecution, history of inconsistent engagement in treatment. Operates through a civil court order, initiated by a petitioner (can be family, can be treatment provider, can be DA's office). It's involuntary, but jail is not typically used as a means of enforcing compliance. Focuses on engagement, not punishment or coercion. Interdisciplinary team. Judge, treatment team (including psychiatrist, case manager, etc), attorneys, law enforcement, participant, etc.
